PROJECT TITLE AND SHORT DESCRIPTION

End of life and ageing as a migrant in Portugal

Study and understanding of the various dynamics related to health of immigrant refugees, and / or Roma people and ageing. What are the determinants and inequalities in health and well-being of the older groups and what public policies, organizations and health professions are specifically targeted at these specific population groups.

It also interests those who immigrate for health reasons: elderly migrants from countries with or without cooperation agreements in the area of health for the purpose of medical treatment and immigrants from northern European countries who decide to move to Portugal for health reasons, active aging and healthy lifestyles.
